

House Rules – Blow’n Up Barrels

By Robert J. Reiner aka Arbitrator General

Why is it that in the movies the stars hide behind a flimsy crate made of paper and not get touched, but they then dash behind a steel crate it blows up? I always thought that was odd. In Necromunda, the best scenery on the tabletop is the odds and ends that you place for ‘light’ cover. I hate it when a shot misses because my opponent’s fighter is behind a box or crate or barrel, can’t I just shoot it? Why yes, yes you can. And here is how...

‘Hey boss, I can’t see that scum cawdor anywhere, can you?’

‘Of course Hector, ’ec (e) Tj0.12 Tc (,) Tj-0.12 Tc () Tj0.08448 Tc (c) Tj0.16224 Tc (t) Tj00.08112 Tc (s) Tj,s ce,cc (e) Tj-0.12 Tc (,

Medium Barrel Damage Table
D6	Effect
1	Yourdi